Gov. Murphy Asks Chrysler, Lewis to Confer With Him

Invites Corporation Head and C. I. O. Chief to Meet Him

GLIMMER OF HOPE

Sit-Down Strike Method Frankly Worrying Official Washington

DETROIT, Mich.—(AP)—Governor Frank Murphy announced Tuesday he expected Walter P. Chrysler and John L. Lewis to confer with him Wednesday at Lansing in an attempt to avert "extreme and costly measures" in the Chrysler corporation strike.

His announcement heightened hopes for a peaceful solution of the strike that has grown more ominous daily.

Trouble for Washington
WASHINGTON—Official Washington and the calm heads among labor would like mightily well to see an end of the sit-down but nobody has advanced any remedy except to grant all the labor requests for more money for less work. And that idea, carried to its ultimate, frightens official Washington more.

The fact is that the sit-down idea, crazy as it seems, has worked in an amazingly high percentage of cases. What vexes some of the labor leaders is that it works just about as well for some outlying band of workers not affiliated with any organization labor movement, as it does for the union men who only a year or so ago were battling out their troubles on the picket lines.

Already there is evidence that even those deeply sympathetic with labor, including Chicago Tribune editor, are becoming so bored and annoyed by sit-downs as they once were at flag-pole-sitters.

Scarcely an official or unofficial voice in Washington defends the sit-down on the ground of legality and all wish the idea really would get funny enough to be laughed out of existence before it is shot out.

Prices Counteract
The idea of higher wages is not upsetting here as a general thing and not a few business men have felt labor was entitled to a bigger bite of the industrial pie. But Chairman Eccles of the federal reserve board bluntly protested that just about every wage increase was accompanied by a price increase that more than offset the better wages.

It doesn't take any fancy running around in the economic maze to convince even the plainest people that that won't work, at least for long. And that is precisely what Eccles was talking about. He didn't say so in his statement but it was plain that he meant simply this:

It won't be a smart idea to start into another depression while the national pants pockets are full of 1-Owe-Me bonds.

Remedy Painful
The point that Eccles did not solve was how to balance the budget without pain. He suggested taxes and congress shuddered almost to a man.

The chief unbelieved feature of the budget, relying from Eccles only that he did not favor balancing it as the becoming of those needing relief. And what's the picture there? Harry Hopkins, WPA administrator, said 1937 would find 6,500,000 to 7,500,000 unemployed. "Indeed," he said, "it is conceivable that industrial production might level off or go into a decline, in which case the unemployment problem would be correspondingly larger."

Actor's Body Is Given Up by Sea

Father Identifies Vosper, Who Vanished at Party Aboard Ship

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—Dr. Percy Vosper definitely identified Tuesday the body of a man washed up from the English Channel near Beach Head as that of Frank Vosper, his actor son who has been mysteriously missing since he disappeared from a gay champagne party at sea March 6.

He'd Never Met the Lady
OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla.—(AP)—"Have you ever committed a crime involving moral turpitude?" Attorney J. Q. A. Harrod asked a federal court witness.

The witness pondered solemnly, then inquired, "Who's she?"

Signs That Never Fail---It MUST Be Spring

A crocus can make a mistake about the season. Boys and girls doff their coats to roller skate and play marbles at the slightest provocation. Even those new Easter parade outfits make premature appearances here and there. But when you add to these phenomena that unaccountable yawniness of old men crouching in the sun, and young couples with far away looks in their eyes trying to appear casual when seated close together on the greensward—well, you can reach only one conclusion—Spring has come. If you need any other proof, look at the calendar. Today IS the first day of Spring.

Oil Field Schools to Be Inspected

New London Inquiry Reveals Danger in Another Building

NEW LONDON, Texas.—(AP)—Rigid inspection of every rural school in the vast east Texas oil field area was expected to be the aftermath Tuesday of the disastrous London school explosion, which was caused, experts agreed, by accumulated gas.

School doors were shut as the safety experts began a search for possible similar conditions that killed 455 here. Extreme caution prevailed the area, especially after Gordon C. Hawley, chief engineer of the State Fire Insurance Department, told the military court of inquiry Monday that he had located another school in the vicinity endangered by escaping gas.

Kiwanians Will Visit Hot Springs

Hope Is to Send Delegation to Inter-City Meet Wednesday

The Hope Kiwanis club completed plans Tuesday to attend an inter-city meeting of the Hot Springs club at the Arlington hotel at Hot Springs Wednesday night.

Several carloads of Kiwanians will leave Hope Wednesday morning. Some of the members plan to attend the horse races during the afternoon.

Speakers before the local club at its luncheon meeting at noon Tuesday at New Capital hotel were Dr. J. O. Segura and H. M. Mizell of Jackson, Miss.; and Dick Sands and Wayne Johnson of Poncha Vista.

The weekly prize was won by Mr. Mizell. It was given by Mat Lowe. John P. Cox will have charge of next week's program.

Meeting Postponed
A meeting of the Men of First Methodist church, scheduled Tuesday night, has been postponed to Tuesday night, March 30.

Bible Conference at Baptist Church

Sessions Being Held at Church at 2 and 7:30 p. m. Tuesday

A district vacation Bible school conference is being held this Tuesday, in the Educational Building of First Baptist church. Two sessions will be held. The afternoon session began at 2 p. m., and the night session is to be held at 7:30 p. m.

These conferences are held all over Arkansas this week. They are for the district leaders, pastors, general association and vacation Bible school superintendents. All Sunday school workers and those interested in vacation Bible school work.

The Rev. George R. Wilson, pastor of First Baptist church at Smackover, and the Rev. Edgar Williamson, state Sunday school and training union secretary, have charge of the conferences. They will be assisted by workers in each district.

Everyone who is interested in promoting a Vacation Bible School this year or in the near future is invited to attend the meeting of the southwest district. Members of other churches of the city will be welcome at this conference.

Italy Denies She Gave Spain Men

Contingent Landed at Cadiz Comprises Doctors, Nurses Only

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—Italy informed Great Britain Tuesday in reply to urgent queries concerning the reported landing of Italian troops in Spain that the nude body of a man washed up Cadiz March 5 was made up only of volunteer doctors and nurses.

No Italian troops have landed in Spain, the reply stated flatly.

Ancient Greece used the "secret ballot" in voting. This method consisted of putting pebbles in a box.

Girl Bus Victim Still Unconscious

Seven Are Yet Receiving Treatment at Cora Donnell Hospital

Nettie Cross, 18-year-old Laneburg High School student, and one of 20 persons injured late Friday night in a triple collision between two school buses and a truck, remained in a critical condition at Cora Donnell hospital at Prescott Tuesday.

"She is still unconscious and there has been no change in her condition the past 24 hours," a physician at the hospital told The Star over telephone at 1:30 p. m. The Cross girl suffered a skull fracture and other injuries.

The injury list at the hospital was reduced to seven Tuesday afternoon when Elmer Harper, 24, was removed to his home. He sustained a crushed chest and broken hip.

Those remaining at the hospital, but believed to be out of danger, are: The Rev. A. B. Barham, 57, broken hip and pelvis; Duell Crabbe, 22, Thomas Barksdale, 17; Faye Harper, 15; broken jaw, pelvis and collar bone; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lowe, 27 and 21.

The crash occurred on Highway 19 south of Laneburg when a truck loaded with heavy hickory bolts sideswiped one bus and then crashed head-on into the second bus. The two buses were carrying school children and parents home from a school play at Laneburg.

Tom Cruise, 30, Prescott automobile mechanic, who was injured early Sunday in a crash four miles north of Prescott on Highway 67, remained in the hospital Tuesday. Physicians said he would recover. He sustained a crushed chest and severe cuts about the face and head.

Nazis Hunt Head Hunters
FRANKFURT-ON-MAIN.—(AP)—A German expedition to the Netherlands East Indies, sponsored by the ex-Kaiser's friend, the famous German savant Leo Frobenius, has left here for the Moluccan island of Ceram, whose inland population reputedly consists largely of head hunters. One of its chief objects is to trace the links between native cultures in all parts of the globe.

Sunrise Service at 6 a. m. Easter in New Hope Stadium

Plans for City-Wide Easter Service Completed by Committee

SEATS FOR 1,800

East Side of New High School Stadium Ready for Occupants

A meeting of the general committee arranging for the sunrise Easter service next Sunday morning at 6 o'clock, at the high school stadium, was held Monday night in the council room of the city hall.

This committee, presided over by Roy Anderson, chairman, received reports of committees and completed plans for the sunrise service.

The chairman said he had received verbal reports from most of the committees. The grounds committee reported that everything would be in readiness Sunday morning. Seats will be available for 1,800. The seats are being given their second coat of paint and will be ready by the middle of the week.

It was decided to make use of a piano for the service. The chairman appointed the following committee to have charge of getting a piano on the platform in front of the stadium: Lloyd Coop, E. P. Young, Marion Monroe.

It was decided also to use a public address system with loud speakers. A committee to arrange this is Oliver Mills, Leon Carrington, Victor Cobb. Charles Dana Gibson was appointed to be in charge of electric lights for the parking space and to arrange for the use of the high school auditorium in the event that the weather should make the outdoor service inadvisable. In charge of parking will be the several troops of Boy Scouts under direction of A. W. Stubbeman, one of the Scoutmasters. They will be on the grounds by 5:30 a. m.

A finance committee was appointed by Mr. Anderson as follows: The Rev. V. A. Hammond, Dr. J. H. Weaver, Charles Harrell, L. F. Higginson.

In order to provide transportation to the sunrise service for those who have no other way to come, school buses will call at the various grade schools. Those who have automobiles are requested to bring their neighbors to the service with them. Others will gather at the various schools where buses will call for them at 5:45 a. m.

Funeral of Former Providence Man Wednesday at Rocky Mound
J. F. Tonnemaker, 73, of Hope, but who spent almost his entire life in the Providence community, died at his home here late Monday afternoon of bronchial pneumonia.

The funeral service is to be held at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Mouser graveyard near Rocky Mound.

A resident of Hempstead county since a boy, Mr. Tonnemaker is survived by one son, Dale, of Hope; and four daughters, Mrs. O. A. Williams and Mrs. Vernon Schooley, both of Hope; and Mrs. D. P. Yeager, of San Antonio, Texas; and Mrs. R. L. Williams, of Dyess, Ark.

Funeral services will be in charge of the Rev. William R. Hamilton, pastor of First Baptist church.

Taint's so. Yet it reminds us of that quaint Americanism that likes its public men born in a log cabin but able at the age of 35 to talk three languages, place long distance calls nonchalantly and know what to do with the third fork on the left of the plate.

Attorney General Attacks Hiring of Building Lawyer

Campbell Appointment for New Blind School May Be Illegal

SAYS BOARD LIABLE

Atty.-Gen. Holt Declares Blind School Board May Be Removed

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Attorney General Jack Holt ruled Tuesday that members of the board for the State Blind and Deaf Schools who voted Monday to employ an attorney for the board violated a 1935 act and were subject to indictment and removal from office.

The minutes of the board meeting Monday showed the appointment of Tom W. Campbell, of Little Rock, as attorney and fiscal agent, to handle the details of the proposed new $300,000 Blind School received four affirmative and one negative vote.

The contract provided he was to receive one per cent of the amount involved.

Voting to retain the attorney were: W. E. Phipps, State Commissioner of Education and chairman of the board; Jack Montgomery, Newport; Ed Stanley and J. F. Carson, Little Rock.

State Senator Roy Milum cast the lone vote against the proposal.

Mussolini Loved by French Woman

And She Shot French Count Who "Told All," Police Say

PARIS, France.—(AP)—Madeline La Ferriere told an investigating magistrate Monday that she shot Count Charles de Chambrun because he revealed her friendship with "my Benito," Premier Mussolini of Italy.

The newspaper woman, who shot the former ambassador to Italy as he boarded a train Wednesday night, told her story in closed session. To the question "Why did you shoot de Chambrun?" Mme. La Ferriere replied, her lawyers said:

"Because I appealed to de Chambrun's honor to keep my secret. And he agreed. Later I found out he told all."

She said that de Chambrun had falsely accused her of being a spy. Fate after the session, she went back to jail to rest until Wednesday, when the magistrate will question her again.

Mme. La Ferriere, disdaining the prison van as she had when she was brought to court, rode in a taxi. She was held on a charge of assault and battery.

Her attorney said Mme. La Ferriere told the court:

"I went to Rome in April, 1936, to get an interview for the newspaper La Liberte. I got it and returned to see Mussolini several times for another newspaper, La Tribune des Nations."

Turned Brown By Brown Turner

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—Getting so now there's about as much whisky being made, sold and guzzled as there was during the days of the Eighteenth Amendment, and despite the loud wails and throaty mumbblings of the bootleggers, business has picked up in other lines so much they're not pestering the relief agencies like they thought they'd have to.

Since the Supreme Court's been mad at the New Deal and Congress there hasn't been so many laws passed, so maybe if we can keep them at odds we'll get along better till the Christmas rush starts, anyway.

Woodmen Circle in District Meet

Southwestern Delegates in Session Here Thursday, March 25

Plans have been completed for the Southwestern district convention of the Woodmen Circle, which will be held here Thursday, March 25, according to an announcement by Mrs. Nettie Wiggins, chairman of the local committee on arrangements.

It will be a one-day meeting, with business sessions during the day and concluding with an open meeting at night. Delegates and visitors from South Arkansas towns and counties comprising the district will attend.

The convention will begin at 10 a. m. in the Woodmen hall. County Judge Frank Rider will welcome the visitors to Hope, and Mrs. Lela Lumpkin of Texarkana, will respond. Mrs. Eva D. Taylor, Texarkana, state and district president, will preside over the business sessions. Appearing on the program will be:

Mrs. Tressie Goldstickler, state manager, Little Rock; Mrs. Desa Meador, Texarkana, state inner sentinel, and Mrs. Birdie Duchene, North Little Rock, state treasurer. The following Hope district officers will assist: Mrs. Bertha Eason and Mrs. Mary Sewell, auditors; Mrs. Ida Westerman, chaplain; Mrs. Thelma Northcutt, captain, and Mrs. Katie Laster, junior counselor.

At 12:30 a luncheon will be served at the New Capital hotel, with Mrs. Goldstickler as toastmistress.

At the afternoon session the Texarkana drill team will assist with the initiation of a class of candidates and will demonstrate floor work.

The evening meeting at 7:30 will be open to the public. Mrs. Goldstickler will be mistress of ceremonies, and Mayor Albert Graves will deliver the welcome address with response by Mrs. Duchene. B. B. Ragland, Little Rock, state manager for the Woodmen of the World, will give an address.

The Frances Bascom dancing school pupils will be presented in fancy drills and dances. There will be musical selections by the Hope quartet and by Geraldine Whitten at the piano and Dorothy Nesbit on the violin. Mrs. W. O. Shipley will give a reading and Miss Harriet story will sing. The Ridgill string band will also appear on the program, and the Texarkana drill team will present a fancy drill.

Gambling Cut Off Again at the Spa

Hot Springs Forced to Suspend It on Governor's Ultimatum

LITTLE ROCK.—A few hours after Governor Bailey issued a statement Monday that "open gambling must stop" in Hot Springs, he was advised by Gray Albright, superintendent of the state Police Department, that Sheriff Marion Anderson of Garland county had reported that gambling halls had been closed as soon as news of the governor's statement reached Hot Springs.

Sheriff Anderson was quoted by Superintendent Albright as saying the gambling places "will stay closed."

The governor's statement said: "It may just as well be understood finally, once and for all, that I have no patience with gambling. It is morally

The Family Doctor

Germes of Anthrax, Animal Disease, Spread Chiefly Through Hides and Hair

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

(No. 168)
The first germ known to be dangerous to man, seen under a microscope, was the anthrax germ which was actually observed in 1849. Anthrax also was the first disease transferred to an animal by direct inoculation.

Pasteur studied this disease and grew the organism, and in 1875 Koch grew it in pure culture. Those experiments with the anthrax germ established modern methods of growing germs and proving that they are actually the causes of certain diseases.

It will be remembered, incidentally, that anthrax was the disease with which Pasteur was concerned in the experiment on sheep that was the dramatic high point in the recent motion picture, "The Life of Louis Pasteur."

Anthrax primarily is a disease of animals, but it also attacks man. While it principally affects cattle and horses, it may attack sheep and be transmitted to other animals. It has been found in both cold and in warm areas, and frequently is introduced in the United States through hides and hair imported from abroad.

One of the greatest anthrax scares in the United States, for instance, followed the importation of shaving brushes from Japan.

Anthrax germs get into the skin by direct contact, and form a malignant blister; or they may get into the lungs by inhalation as in the case of wool sorters. Sometimes, of course, the germ is swallowed, in which case it localizes in the intestines. In still other cases, it enters the brain.

Seven days after the anthrax germ gets into the body and infects a human being, symptoms begin to appear. If the skin has been attacked, boils form which contain the germs. These boils open and the material from them may infect other persons.

Obviously, the people most likely to catch anthrax are those who are exposed to it in their work. This includes particularly veterinarians, meat inspectors, farmers, butchers, and workers in those industries which involve hides, bristles, wool and hair.

The germ itself is resistant to heat, to dryness, to sunlight, and even to germicidal agents, so that very strong antiseptics are necessary to keep it under control.

It is obvious that the methods of preventing anthrax must involve suppression of the infection in animals and suitable control of materials that may contain the spores. Wool, hides, and hair should be disinfected before being turned over to workers for manufacturing purposes. The workers may protect themselves by wearing rubber gloves and aprons and there must be proper ventilation to carry off dust from machines in which hair and wool are handled.

When Anthrax appears, it is possible, of course, to use vaccine made from the germs for immunization as well as for treatment.

The only way to kill anthrax germs on hair probably is to sterilize or disinfect it with steam. Steam, however, will seriously damage wool and hides. Other methods, therefore, are necessary to disinfect these substances.

Nowadays the United States government demands that hair used for shaving brushes be disinfected either by boiling for at least three hours or by exposure first to a vacuum, then to steam under at least 15 pounds of pressure for not less than 30 minutes.

Your Children

By Olive Roberts Barton

March Is More Dangerous to Children Than Robins.

"The robin, poor thing," can hide his head under his wing, and I hope, keep warm when the nice spring weather suddenly swirls snow at us and says it was just fooling.

Robins are like people and children, when it comes to safety and health, and they evidently know that heads are to be protected.

But they differ from us in one respect, evidently, because it is the warm intervals of March, not the cold, that are dangerous for the human being, particularly if followed by another change of weather.

There is an old saying that goes "Live through March and live all year." And usually there is a basis for the old laws.

Harry comes in from school and complains, "Mom, I'm nearly roasted. Can't I just wear my sweater this afternoon and leave the cold coat at home?"

And Mother, fanning herself with her apron, says "You certainly may." Then Harry, with half a point view, pleads for still more comfort. "I don't need this sweater, either. Look, there's Chuck out in just his shirt."

He wins, Harry does, and that afternoon a cool wind begins to blow. Harry sniffs that night and complains of earache, because he flew a kite on his way home and left his cap at the news stand.

March is the variable month, more so indeed than April of fickle fame. In April, in spite of showers and occasional "angel snow," unseen forces are in a general way more favorable to health.

During war intervals of weather, children need not go out bundled up the way they were on zero days, because they will get overheated, and this is dangerous also. But the ears that have been covered by flaps all winter, throats protected by scarfs, and small shanks accustomed to leggings, are vulnerable places. The mother must use as careful judgment as she can, do the unpeeling slowly, and above all, watch for sudden changes in temperature.

Harry needed his coat and cap. The sweater may not have been necessary. And he should have come straight home and not shed his clothes.

Much depends on the child's weak place, and his tendency to certain types of cold. The uneven chilling of body surface has a direct tie-up with deeper cells. And any portion of skin surface that has been protected all winter should be exposed at first only on good days and for short periods.

School rooms and houses are warm enough for the average child to make it safe for him to shed all outer wraps. Street is another matter, until spring has settled down in earnest.

Girls jump ropes, get overheated, then cool off too soon, or skate with the same result, then sit down in the March wind. Tell them to come in right away and not sit down anywhere.

Boys with kites and marbles forget to come in, too. Kite weather isn't good ear weather. No one wants to deprive children of their fun, so the best substitute is caution.

HOLLYWOOD

By Paul Harrison

Stars' Fan Mail Often Blackmail

HOLLYWOOD.—Few of the fan mail rackets are extensive enough or harmful enough to engage the attention of federal agents, although the latter have been very stern indeed with certain promoters of fan clubs, also with blackmailers.

Nine out of 10 cases of attempted extortion are quickly shushed by the stars and never reach the public prints. This because no matter how fantastic the charges brought by a blackmailer, the threat of publicity would be harmful to the star.

A lot of petty rackets, some of them by no means illegal, are practiced today but with little success. Alert secretaries recognize and help to squelch the schemes. For example, when Jean Harlow received a piece of jewelry in her fan mail it was not immediately given away but was put aside for a few weeks. Pretty soon came a bill for $50.

The letter which had accompanied the jewelry was found to indicate in carefully phrased language that it was a gift. But buried in a middle paragraph was a line asking the return of the article if the actress didn't wish to keep it. The sender had hoped that Miss Harlow would have given away the brooch before receiving the bill, and so would have felt obligated to pay for it. But she hadn't, and back it went.

'Looks as if It Might Be a 50 to 40 Decision'

Dick Duped
Dick Powell received a sweater from somebody who he supposed was a sweet old lady. He wrote back: "Thanks for the sweater. You will be glad to know that it fits perfectly and that I now am wearing it." But it turned out that the sweet old lady worked for a small manufacturer, and the manufacturer put out a lot of advertising to this effect: "Dick Powell Wears Sleepie-Sleepie Sweaters; Says

They Fit Perfectly."
All the better-known singers in Hollywood, especially the popular tenors such as Bing Crosby, have learned to be wary of racketeering composers. Some of them send unpublished songs in letter to stars and later threaten suit charging that the songs were stolen for pictures. Such demands usually are harmless but very troublesome.

Most of the topnotch flicker dancers also get letters claiming: "I suggested that pajama routine you did in 'On to Buffalo,' and am prepared to take legal action unless I receive compensation."

Not So Nutty
The Marx Brothers often have stories submitted to them in the guise of fan mail. They never read the stories.

Indeed, they have a form letter which notifies each sender that they can't read the story. This forestalls trouble. Because pretty chiselers used to insure already-broken gifts sent to stars, and then would try to collect damages, screen secretaries now report all damaged gifts to postal authorities.

Naturally there are a great many requests for money. "Dear, kind, generous Gloria Goss: I am writing to tell you that if I will be orphaned unless we can get $250 for our mother's operation . . ." Sometimes sophisticated film players have paid for investigations of cases which sounded deserving. A discouraging percentage have been fakes.

Seldom is there such a frank and DAPHNE BRETT loved LARRY SMITH, architect. But Daphne had refused to marry Larry until she had accumulated sufficient money to launch JENNIFER, her younger sister, on a career.

Jennifer had proved the selfish sister from the start, defying Daphne at every turn. Finally Jennifer meets GORDON HERZBERG, theater producer, and apparently finds her work.

Then Daphne is sent on a two-month tour. Before she leaves she again refuses Larry's offer of marriage, but without telling him why. So Larry says good-bye, assuming that Daphne has chosen a career in preference to his love. The final blow comes when Daphne returns from her trip, finds Jennifer dating Larry!

So Daphne decides to play the game herself. She arranges a gorgeous dinner party for several friends, including Herzberg and Larry. Larry is very happy to see Daphne again, but she holds him aloof, playing up to Herzberg. The following Sunday Daphne is given a lead in Herzberg's new play—the lead Jennifer had sought. Jennifer, learning this, tells Daphne, "I hate you!"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIV

DAPHNE was very calm about it. "I'm sorry that you do," she said, "but I'm a little surprised. And while I dislike quotations, you might remember that one about sauce for the goose."

Jennifer stared back at her wordlessly.

"For the first time you're learning what it is to see another person take what she wants. And isn't it fair?"

"Fair?"

"Yes, that's the word," Daphne said calmly. "Don't I get anything?"

"You've got everything."

"Thanks for the compliment. I was going to point out to you that it's about time I had a bit of glamour in my life. It's not too late I'm beginning to discover."

"I lived in a furnished room and earned my keep so that you could stay in an expensive school. When you got out, I did everything I could to give you a good start. You didn't show up too well so I'm the worm that's turned."

"I don't know what you mean."

"I'm going to tell you what I mean. You knew that I loved Larry. You knew that he loved me. You knew that we had quarreled but you should have known that a lover's quarrel can be mended. Yet, deliberately, when I was away, you took him away from me."

Jennifer started to speak but Daphne went on:

"All right, it's fair exchange; you'll have Larry and I'll have the theater. And if this is the lesson I mean it to be, you'll be a better wife to Larry. You'll try and see his point of view when ethics arise. Perhaps you'll remember that you lost one thing because you didn't know how to play square. Maybe it'll make you the kind of a girl I tried to make of you. That's all."

Daphne whirled out of the room.

JENNIFER followed her. "Daphne . . . are you doing this just to teach me a lesson. Because if you are . . ."

Daphne was very cool, keeping a firm hold on herself. She answered, "Not at all."

After that, for the remainder of the week, the two girls avoided each other. If Jennifer pretended to be asleep when Daphne rose in the morning, it was no different from Daphne's pretense of the same thing at night.

Jennifer spoke to her only when it was necessary and then in monosyllables. But Jennifer took to giving her strange glances and more than once she came into the room they shared and stood silently staring for a moment as though there was something she wanted to say.

Daphne had to keep her mind from thoughts of Jennifer. A new quiet, a strained haunting in Jennifer's eyes smote her and more than once she was tempted to ask Jennifer to talk to her.

Then, thinking of Jennifer and Larry, she was firm again and put her pity out of her heart.

Five days before the play was to open, she found Jennifer in tears.

Jennifer hadn't cried even when she was a baby.

"WHAT is it, Jennifer?" she asked gently.

Jennifer wiped her tears away on her sleeve; an incredibly childish gesture.

"Nothing," she said proudly and walked into the bath.

Daphne got up and followed her.

"I suppose you think this is easy for me?"

"I'm sure I don't know, but if it makes you any more satisfied, you'll be glad to know that you're breaking my heart."

"Have you really got one?"

Daphne said:

"Yes, it seems that I have. It was all in the theater until . . ."

She put her hands over her face and her shoulders shook.

"All of it couldn't have been there's Larry," Daphne reminded her.

"There isn't Larry . . . and there . . . there never was. He wasn't in love with me. He's eating his heart out over you."

Daphne listened with her heart standing still.

"Jennifer, tell me this minute what you mean. Stop acting like a child." The blood pounded in Daphne's ears.

Jennifer dried her eyes and sat on the side of the tub. Her tone was sulky and her eyes were fixed on the floor as she began to talk:

"You ought to have known Larry was in love with you all the time. I did." She gulped and went on again. "After you went away and I called Tuck and he said he wouldn't come over because you told him he couldn't, that was the last straw. You and your high-handed methods! I was jealous."

"Jealous of me?" Daphne demanded incredulously.

"Certainly. You were always the prettiest. You were the successful one. You were the big-wage earner. All the men were crazy about you. All the men I met here who were attractive always talked about you. And I was crazy about Tuck. I liked him better than anyone else until I got in the theater. Oh, Daphne, I wanted to be an actress! I'd have worked myself to death for the rest of my life! The tears started to flow again."

DAPHNE handed her a handkerchief. "You'll be back. I want to hear about Larry."

"Well, I lied to him. I told him I wanted to have him help me make a decision about something and he came to see me. I told him you were completely through but I thought when you came back I could plead for him. He used to hang around me to hear me talk about you."

Daphne poured cold water on a towel. "Here, put that on your head and lie down for a few minutes. I'll give you an hour to rest and then we've got work to do."

"Aren't you . . . aren't you mad?"

"Just as mad as anyone could be at a 6-year-old child. Now take off that dress. I'll call you in an hour and we're going to start rehearsing."

"We?" Daphne said as she went into the other room. "I might need an understudy. I don't think the one we have really knows all the business I do. I can teach it to you. Just in case."

GOOD GARDENING

Arrange the Garden by Colors

By DONALD GRAY

There are too many good varieties of annuals that have been introduced in recent years that are better bloomers, have larger flowers and are just as easy to grow, as any of the older varieties. Here are some suggested schemes of getting good color combinations with the heights properly arranged. The numbers relate to those on the accompanying plan.

WITH THE LADIES

By Helen Welshimer

Now Women Really Can Pool Interests With the Menfolk

There was a time—only day before yesterday if you have a calendar handy—when women were supposed to stay at home evenings, mend socks and read books, unless something was happening at the church, school house or town hall.

The woman who entered a recreation hall to shoot ivory balls around a green cloth would have been branded as unfit to prepare spinach and soft-boiled eggs.

Her husband? He liked to find her sitting in the halo of the reading lamp. An occasional excursion to the town's recreation rooms was not supposed to make him unfit to speak to little children or sit on the schoolboard.

Now, with the setting-up of tables for ladies in Ponzi's luxurious new billiard academy in New York City, masculinity has to make room for women in another stronghold. Society has put its approval on woman's presence. She may not be so good at balk-line billiards, being new to the game, but on the ordinary variety she will derive a lot of pleasure out of wielding her cue.

Just Beginning to Learn to Have Fun

The origin of the idea that a woman should not give herself openly to recreation on occasional evenings probably had its inception in the fact that it always has been her task to watch the hearth and the children. Not for a moment should she neglect it now. However, she previously could have managed to have found more genuine, harmless amusement in life than she has, if she had wanted to. The trouble is that women just now are beginning to learn to have fun!

Take the ball-parks and the races. You will find an audience composed of men—an enthusiastic, cheering, vibrant audience who throw their hats in the air, call to their favorites and enjoy themselves as blissfully as a six-year-old who sucks a lemon through a stick of candy. The specta-

Be brief. Avoid personal abuse. The world's greatest critics were painfully polite. Every writer must sign his name and address.

The Supreme Court

Editor The Star: It was my intention to cast my vote and write a small article on the Supreme Court, during the supreme court contest through The Star, but business being pressing, I neglected.

But now finding time, if the editor please, I will give my version. First, what is the constitution? Ex-president Taft has said: It is what the supreme court interprets it to be. But what is the proper definition of the term? What do we mean when we say a bill is unconstitutional? We mean it is a violation of precedent. Then where is our precedent?

In 1922 when our nation was threatened with anarchy and ruin, Mr. Roosevelt during the campaign laid down his platform, stating that the nation was facing major economic problems without precedent, and which could not adjust themselves without legislation. Hence, the NRA to employ the 12 million idle, also control of production to meet demand.

What was the answer of the people? He received the most overwhelming majority of any President in the history of the nation, thus, vesting him the NRA, and the Bankhead bill which he asked for in his campaign.

What was the first step of our enemies of good government and advocates of a sit-down-and-do-nothing administration. They enlisted the support of our best citizens, among them being our farmers, 75 per cent of whom in this county having lost their homes before the advent of the present administration, and we might add that the remaining 25 per cent owe their possession to the present administration) and to my surprise the majority of them would tie the hand of our present administration, forbidding tors are having a good time in a strictly impersonal way. That, be it known, is the reason that men, from time immemorial, have been able to get more of a thrill out of life than have women. That is why they have made recreation rooms their stronghold. It has been our own urge to make a personal affiliation with every project that we view, that has kept us from a more active participation in the play world.

Women really crashed into men's world of sport when they started to play tennis and golf. The pool hall has been man's last citadel, and now it, too has fallen.

Learning Thrills of Impersonal Enjoyments

In no way do we condone the useless waste of time of either men or women who make a fetish of amusement and recreation. A certain amount of both are necessary for the upkeep of the human body and heart. Men and women are equal heirs to this re-birth.

Nor do we extend our sympathy to the licensed or unlicensed dens of iniquity where recreational facilities have been merely a cover-up for sinister designs. In fact, it was due primarily to this set-up that a stigma became attached to such things as billiard tables and bowling alleys for women. Men, being harder creatures, could take care of themselves, the verdict ran.

Play to Be Given at Patmos Friday

"Deacon Dubbs" to Be Presented as Athletic Fund Benefit

"Deacon Dubbs," a rural comedy-drama in three acts will be presented in the Patmos High School auditorium Friday night, March 26, at 8 o'clock. The cast includes:

Deacon Dubbs, from Sorghum Center—Melvin Middlebrooks.
Amos Coleman, his nephew, a lawyer—Trinon Hubbard.
Rawdon Crawley, a wolf in sheep's clothing—Jack Lafferty.
Major McNutt, the auctioneer—Selwyn Adams.
Deuteronomy Jones, a country product—Eddie Yancy.
Rose Raleigh, the brave little school m'ann—Gerlene Taylor.
Miss Philpina Popover, with both eyes on the Deacon—Nell Mayton.
Emily Dale, the richest girl in town—Catherine Hamilton.
Trixie Coleman, full of mischief—Josephine Simmons.
Yennie Jensen, the hired girl from Sweden—Mable Lewis.

The proceeds of the play will go to the Patmos athletic fund.

it to enact important legislation laid down in his platform. Necessity demands a reorganization of the Supreme Court, in order to carry out the platform laid down by Roosevelt in his first campaign. Where would our homes be today were it not for the NRA and the Bankhead bill? Should we bite the hand that feeds us? We were already in anarchy; the farmers of this vicinity refused to permit foreclosure on real estate. Why does the supreme court interpret the New Deal as unconstitutional? Mr. Taft again: Five of the judges are opposed to it. The constitution being what they interpret it to be, therefore invalidated. A matter of opinion and politics after all.

Let us stand firmly behind the present administration, that our financial and economic status may again be revived, and that peace, prosperity and good will may again reign, among the greatest people of the universe.

EAT THE THEATERS

At the Saenger
The memory of countless chuckles with the beloved Will Rogers has created an unprecedented public demand for the return of America's homepun humorist in "Ambassador Bill," that heads the Saenger's first part of Tuesday and Wednesday's double show, a role close to the heart of the unofficial ambassador of the United States.

Once again you laugh with the cowboy philosopher as he takes full advantage of the hilarious situations which fill the story. Pronounced as Will Rogers' most natural and human role, "Ambassador Bill" also features Greta Nissen, Marguerite Churchill, and Gustav von Seyffertitz.

After fighting continually for a character role instead of the usual screen roles granted to screen actresses of her beauty, Rochelle Hudson finds her plea answered in "Women-Wise," the second feature attraction, in which the lovely star, featured opposite Michael Whalen, finds ample scope for real dramatic ability.

As the two-fisted daughter of a washed-up ex-heavyweight champion, Rochelle effects a telling combination of an aggressive newspaper-woman and romantic girl in her collaboration with Michael Whalen, a crusading sports editor out to clean up the fighting game in his city.

Miriam Hopkins says:

"My throat welcomes Luckies—my favorite cigarette for 5 years"

"Luckies have been my favorite cigarette for about 5 years. They're a light smoke that sensitive throats welcome. Of the many trends that sweep through Hollywood, one of the longest lasting has been the preference for Luckies. I once asked a 'property' man—who supplies cigarettes to the actors—what the favorite is. He answered by opening up a box containing cigarettes. They were all Luckies."

Miriam Hopkins

STAR OF THE RKO RADIO PICTURE "THE WOMAN I LOVE"

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Miss Hopkins verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.

Roving Distortograph Camera Catches the Pitchers Today's Picture Story and Makes a Hit With the Hitters and Catches Catchers' Fancy

"Watch my smoke," says Red Lucas, Pittsburgh Pirate pitcher. No, Elmer, that's not a violin case—that's Red's foot caught by trick camera.

Here it comes! Big Jim Weaver, another Pirate hurler, is about to fire away. The ball looks as big as a melon, but that's just one more trick of the camera. Batters, however, don't have camera eyes. The same ball looks like buckshot to them.

The camera gets back to earth and catches the pitcher in the act of letting fly his Sunday-go-to-meeting pitch. Peering up from behind and under Ken Sylvestri, one of the Chicago White Sox rookie catchers, it sees Gale Wolfe, young White Sox right-hander, in the act of serving up a hot one. Unfortunately for the batters, the pitcher never looks as far away nor as small as Rookie Wolfe does here. When you're in that batter's box Wolfe looks like he's right up there at your door.

Tommy Padden, substitute Pirate catcher, isn't using a telephone pole for a bat. It's that tricky camera again. Tommy, too, was out of focus and missed.

No! He didn't miss it. It was a foul fly and Al Todd, Pirate catcher, has camped under it and his big glove has gobbled it up. Catchers wish there was a camera around all the time to make their gloves as big as this for purposes such as this.

Tris Speaker's Three Jobs Keep Him as Busy as Brown Outfielder

One-Time Famous Outfielder Is Now Liquor Dealer, Steel Man and Boss of Boxing—But He Still Thinks Baseball Is Top Sport

This is the ninth of a series about former sports stars.

By RICHARD McCANN
NEA Service Sports Writer

CLEVELAND — The residents of baseball's Hall of Fame must have been quite pleased to hear that Mr. Tris Speaker was going to have a lifetime lease on one of the hall rooms. This, you know, is such good company and the boys undoubtedly were glad to have him around.

You see, he was one of the most likable men in all the history of baseball. He was just the opposite of Ty Cobb, his chip-on-the-shoulder contemporary. Nobody, not even Pollyanna and Peter Pan, liked Cobb, as you know. But everybody, even Cobb, liked Speaker.

Time has taken away Tris' baseball skill, but it hasn't robbed him of his ability to make friends and keep them. To support this statement, ladies and gentlemen of the jury, we offer as evidence:

An Array of Evidence
Exhibit A.—Spoke, as the boys like to call him, opened up a modest wholesale liquor business here which has come forward as fast as he used to go back for them—all because of his personal popularity.

Exhibit B.—He was appointed Boxing Commissioner for the City of Cleveland by popular demand. If there had been voting the people would have elected as their three commissioners, the Messrs. Tris Speaker, Spoke Speaker, and Gray Eagle Speaker.

Exhibit C.—Just recently a steel company, looking around for a personal sales representative for the state of Ohio, picked Mr. Speaker, not because he knew the most about steel, which he didn't, but because he knew more men and more men knew him and liked him than all the other candidates put together.

Busy as Brown Gardner
All these duties keep Mr. Speaker as busy as an outfielder on the St. Louis Browns, but he still finds time to keep himself in shape. He will be 49 on April 4 and it's been seven years since he quit baseball and yet he's in better shape than most of the young athletes who are moaning through spring training right now.

"I go to a gymnasium as much as I can during the winter," says Spoke, "and then I play golf nearly every day in the summer. I'm usually in the low 80s and now and then I get down in the high 70s. But did I say I go out to play golf practically every day in the summer? Well, not exactly. When the Indians are in town I'm out at the ball yard."

Unlike most old-timers, he doesn't find fault with the present game. He was asked what he thought should be done to improve the game and he snorted. "What do you mean?" he asked. "What do you mean ought to be done? Why, I think the game's all right as it is. It doesn't need any spit ball, or anything like that. It's doing all right."

thinking Cobb, "two of the rarest feats in baseball—that is, in the world series—and there both of them were being done in the same game."

Another Big Day
No one has managed to duplicate Mamby's feat in the 16 series that have followed and so he remains the only man in baseball history to have accomplished three outs in one play in a world series. But Smith's base-clearing stunt was matched just this past year by Tony Lazzeri.

"We sure gave that Wamby and that Smith a pummeling in the clubhouse after the game," says Spoke, recalling the day. "Yes, sir, we pounded 'em on the back so much that they were sore for weeks."

But, of course, that wasn't the only eventful afternoon in the life of the Gray Eagle who swooped around outfields in some 5000 different ball games. . . . "There was the time," he likes to recall, "when I was playing with my town team back in Hubbard, Tex., about 32 or 33 years ago. We had a tough rival in the town team of Groesbeck, about 30 or so miles away."

"Well, sir, we went over there to play a three-game series once. We won the first game, and lost the second. Then we were leading in the third game with two out in the last of the ninth. We had a one run lead and they had a couple of men on when a guy hit a fly out to me. It was an easy chance but I camped under it. I heard somebody in the crowd yell, 'You Hubbard hound, you—if you catch that ball I'll shoot you.'"

"He yelled too late. Just then the ball hit my glove and blammo!—a gun went off and dust kicked up at my feet. Dust? Dust? Boy, you didn't ever see such dust as I kicked up getting away from there. I didn't stop running until I got to the railroad tracks a mile away."

Which, perhaps, explains why Mr. Speaker was so able to go back and get 'em in later years.

Georgia House Kills Race Betting Bill
ATLANTA, Ga.—(AP)—The Georgia house of representatives defeated Monday a bill to legalize race track wagering after Floor Leader Clement Sutton charged lobbyists for the bill operated a "free night club" for legislators.

The bill would have authorized pari-mutuel betting, and created a state commission to supervise horse and dog racing.

The vote was 92 for and 84 against but house rules require 103 votes to pass a bill. A move for reconsideration is expected Tuesday.

Florida Gridders Celebrate
GAINESVILLE, Fla.—(AP)—Are good football players born in March? Well, the University of Florida has five ball-carriers who celebrate their birthday anniversaries this month.

Captain Walter Mayberry's came March 14. Alternate Captain Ken Willis had his March 12. Halfback Paul Brock was 20 on March 4. Moon Mullin and Bob Ivey celebrate March 15 and March 20, respectively.

The Story of a Man Who Caught Bob Feller

By FRED WILLIAMS

NEW ORLEANS.—(AP)—Once I was a catcher in the old Marble valley league in Vermont. I thought I was good and that a pitcher could not serve them up too hot.

But I faced this young Bob Feller. There had been a lot of rumormongering about his prowess, but I didn't believe it. Now I am sadder but wiser because I have first-hand information.

Behind a catcher's mask, chest protector, shin guards and the nerve of a greenhorn I stood before this pitcher over what appeared to me the shortest 60 feet imaginable.

After he had pitched one warm-up ball he took on the appearance of an opposing guard on a football team. I questioned the distance. Bob assured me he had paced it off, reared back, raised a very large foot and turned the first one loose.

It was easy. I made what I thought was a very snappy stop and smirked at a group of Cleveland's Indians, who insultingly had inquired why the chest protector and the shin guards.

The next pitches came in with a little more speed, but nothing unusual, and I was beginning to wonder why this so-so hurler had caused all the puffing by writers and pondering by Judge Landis when Bob said:

"This will be fast on the outside."

This was understatement of the rank sort. Instead of the ordinary baseball, something that appeared the size of a golf ball came hurtling down that very short 60 feet. I caught it, unfortunately.

First there was the shock, then the sting, and then 65 porcupines marched up my left arm, across my shoulder and back down again.

The ball had disappeared.

"It's in the mitt," young Mr. Feller said kindly.

There were a few more like this, but it didn't matter. After that first one nothing mattered.

"Now we'll try a curve," Bob said.

This displayed a lack of geometrical learning on his part. It wasn't a curve. It was a right angle.

It started out like the fast ball and in the fleeting second I thought he had changed his mind. He hadn't. Just before it reached the plate it made a right oblique and dropped three feet. The fact I stopped it at all is proof that the mind may be weak, but the reflex motions strong.

"We'll try that again," Bob said.

"I didn't like it."

I told him that made it unanimous. I didn't like it either. This time it didn't drop, just that sharp off-slash ahead of the plate. I made a nice catch off the backstop.

My hand had taken on the roseate hue of a boiled lobster by this time and I vaguely recalled all pitchers had a slow ball in their repertoire.

"Don't you have a change of pace?" I asked.

"Yes," Bob replied. "Do you want me to throw my fast one?"

This was too much of enough and with profound sympathy for American league batsmen—and Cleveland catchers—I turned the equipment back to Frankie Pytlak of the Indians, who is a good catcher, too.

Issue Court Order for Jim Braddock

Madison Square Garden to Attempt to Halt Braddock-Louis Fight

MIAMI, Fla.—(AP)—The opening shot was fired Monday in Madison Square Garden's legal campaign to compel Heavyweight Boxing Champion Jim Braddock to fight Max Schmeling instead of Joe Louis.

A circuit court order obtained by the Garden required Braddock to show cause April 8 why he should not be restrained from meeting Louis in Chicago unless first he disposes of the German in New York.

This, the Garden conceded, was a big order.

The Garden matched the champion against Schmeling in a 15-rounder for the night of June 3 in New York. In a subsequent contract Braddock engaged to meet Louis in another 15 rounder at Comiskey Park in Chicago on the night of June 22.

Francis M. Miller, local attorney for the New York corporation, appeared before Circuit Judge H. F. Atkinson and by word or written complaint claimed the following:

1. That the Garden has at various times executed three contracts with Braddock to fight Schmeling for the heavyweight crown. The last of these contracts was signed by both parties in December.

2. That Madison Square Garden has a bowl seating 70,000, would scale seats for a heavyweight contest from $2.50 to $27.50 to gross $450,000 and return a net profit of $150,000.

3. That its standing as a sports promoter would be "irreparably damaged" should Braddock fail to keep the date with the challenger after advertising and ticket sales.

Braddock was not immediately served with the order. Deputies missed him at Tropical Park where he had been witnessing the horse races.

Hardin's Brother to L. S. U.

BATON ROUGE, La.—(AP)—The name of Hardin will not be missing from Louisiana State's athletic roster for another four years.

In recent years it was Glen (Slats) Hardin who showed his heels to track fields in the 400-meter hurdles and the quarter-mile at home and abroad.

Now comes 18-year-old Jess Lee (Jigs) Hardin, a brother. He is a freshman candidate in the quarter- and half-mile events.

In the Training Camps

ORLANDO, Fla.—(AP)—Pete Appleton, Washington hurler, packed enough dynamite Monday to turn back the Boston Red Sox, 4 to 1, in an exhibition game.

Beside holding the Sox to three hits in five innings, he whipped out a three bagger in the fourth scoring two runs.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas.—(AP)—The members of the St. Louis Browns baseball squad had a day of rest Monday but spent part of the morning at a "pop" meeting.

It was learned that Donald L. Barnes, president of the club, and William O.

DeWitt, business manager, told the players Rogers Hornsby, manager, would have final authority on the field and his orders must be obeyed.

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif.—(AP)—The Pirates of the National League headed Monday, their first rest of the spring training season, and watched the antics of winter weather they missed back home.

Snow fell as they arose and during the day they saw rain, lightning, hail, sleet and sunshine.

DE LAND, Fla.—(AP)—The gas house gang from St. Louis was just a breeze after the first inning for the Columbus club of the American Association in an exhibition baseball game here Monday, losing to their minor league cousins 5 to 3.

Dean's Moundmate Rates Hubbell Best

Jim Winford Says Dizzy Good, But Hubbell Is Better

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla.—(AP)—Who is the greatest pitcher in major-league baseball today? Southpaw Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants or right-handed Jerome Herman Dean of the St. Louis Cardinals?

Ask Jim Winford, the Meeker, Okla., lad, who pals around on the Cardinal mound staff with Dizzy during the baseball season and goes home to pass the winter with Carl.

Without hesitating, he'll say:

"Hubbell."

"Then he'll explain:

"Look at the records."

"Say what you want to about wins-and-loss averages. They don't tell the story. The earned-run averages do. Dizzy is a great pitcher, but he has a long way to go to catch up with Carl."

Meeker To Take Holiday
That, you learn, is the somewhat prejudiced opinion of the 561 other inhabitants of the little Oklahoma town of Meeker. All 561 are looking forward to the day when Meeker's pitchers No. 1 and 2—Hubbell and Winford, respectively—start against each other.

That will be the biggest day for Meeker since the time in 1933 when Winford's tossing won the little world series for Columbus while Hubbell was beating the Washington Senators.

Young Winford's rise to the majors was even more complicated than Hubbell's. He did get off to a good start, though—twirling a one-hitter for Scotland in the Middle Atlantic league in his first pro game. That was in '29.

A Lot Of Travel

"After that," Winford continues, "I batted around from one farm club to another—St. Joseph and Shawnee in 1930, Springfield, Greensboro, Scott-

Ty Cobb, Wealthiest of Retired Ball Players, Lives Quietly on Big Farm

Georgia Peach, Who Retired in 1928 After 25 Years, Led American League Batters 12 Times—9 in a Row, Stole 96 Bases One Year, Led League 10 Times

This is the 10th of a series about former sports stars.

By RICHARD McCANN
NEA Service Sports Writer

ATHLETON, Calif.—It's hard to believe that Ty Cobb, despite his health and his wealth, is happy.

You see, it's been nine out of nine years since he's had a fight and in that time he hasn't spiked anybody or anything except maybe a scattered rumor here and there that he would return to baseball.

Since he retired at the end of the 1928 season, leaving behind him a brilliant trail of never-to-be-equalled records, the Georgia Peach has been leading the quiet life of a country squire on his large estate here.

He doesn't have to work. He doesn't have to worry. He just lives comfortably with his wife and three of his five children. Everything is going along as smoothly as Walter Johnson pitching a week-day ball game against the Browns.

But Squire Cobb is so at peace with the world he must be miserable. And they do say that the fire-eating Georgian is thinking seriously of hiring a couple of unpires to come out and argue with him. Or maybe a second baseman or two that he can spike when he's in the mood.

Squire Cobb's chief diversion these days is playing golf. Like all ball players, he's naturally good at it. Like Cobb, he's better than the rest when he wants to be. He shoots around in the low 80s, but the boys say that when he's in a head-to-head match with you he'll beat you, even if you are a normal in-the-70s shooter.

Doesn't Like Rabbit Ball

Now that he's out of baseball, Ty doesn't seem to have much interest in the game. For one thing, he doesn't like the so-called rabbit ball.

"The days of the dead ball were better," says Ty. "They've lost a lot of the fine points of the game these days, even though it has made for a lot of spectacular home runs. The old game was better."

"There must be something wrong with baseball today. But, of course, it isn't so much in the game itself. You see, there are a lot more competing sports. In the old days we had few other sports and everyone played baseball."

"But now there's football, golf, swimming and all sorts of things to divide the interest of the sports fans. And another thing, the coaches in the schools and colleges aren't familiar enough with the fine points of baseball to interest the youngsters in this grand old game."

Squire Cobb's children themselves have very little interest in baseball. None of his sons is a fine athlete, but he is a tennis enthusiast and coaches the University of Georgia team.

Greatest of All Competitors

There may be some question about Squire Cobb having been the greatest ball player of all time. But there can be no question but that he is the greatest competitor baseball—and perhaps any sport—has ever known. He's a winner. A Detroit sportswriter once wrote that Cobb "could endure anything but defeat." No truer words were uttered by a typewriter.

He had the most furious will-to-win any athlete ever displayed. They say that he wasn't the greatest natural hitter, and yet he compiled a half-hundred hitting records; and he wasn't the fastest runner, yet he was the greatest base runner of all time.

They tell you that Cobb was only a fair hitter, a bad outfielder and a clumsy baserunner when he first broke into baseball in August, Ga., back in 1901. Those who saw him hit 420 in 1911 and steal 96 bases in 1915 and throw out three men at first base in one game in 1907 find such stories hard to swallow.

But the historians swear that the August club thought it was getting a goodly sum when Detroit paid $750 for Cobb. It seems that he wasn't a born ball player, but was, instead, a made one.

Well, anyway, there's no doubt he was a born fighter. His battles with Earl Hazog and Billy Evans, to mention a few, were the most famous in baseball, and that goes for the Old Olympics, too.

Squire Cobb created about 90 different records for fielding, hitting, endurance, base-stealing, and what by the time he finished his playing days.

Practically all of these records are still standing and probably will for all time. Who, for instance, will ever lead the league in batting nine straight times, like he did? Or steal 96 bases in one year? That's more than whole teams steal these days.

These two records give him his most satisfaction now as he sits back and thinks of the old days. But they, with all the rest, don't make up for the fact that there ain't nobody around to fight, dammit.

For Shrimp-Aches

GALVESTON, Tex.—(AP)—Dolph Rogers, veteran fisherman, thinks he has found a solution to a problem that long has baffled expert salt water fishermen—how to keep live shrimp bait alive and healthy.

He has learned, he says, that the life and general well-being of shrimp are prolonged by administering a dose of powdered ester of acetyl salicylic acid—acetylsalicylic acid.

He is not sure, however, how many tablets should be used in a given quantity of water and is pursuing further research.

Members Sought for Farm Bureau

Prizes Offered for Winners in Men's, Women's Contests

The Hempstead County Farm Bureau is launching a membership drive by sponsoring a contest in which two prizes will be given as grand prizes, according to H. H. Huskey, president of the County Bureau. A man's watch and a woman's watch will be given to the two persons who obtain the most members in this Farmers' organization by April 15. There will be other prizes given in addition to the watches.

The contestants who have entered are: Mrs. Clyde Osborn, Ozark, Huntley, Washington; Herbert Wortham, Spring Hill; Miss Arlene Wortham, McCaskill; Miss Kathleen Downs, Columbus; Joe Eddie Johnson, Columbus; Quinton Derryberry, Blevins; Elton Cummings, Beards Chapel; Frances Huett, Patmos.

Any other persons who wish to enter the contest may do so by notifying Frank J. Hill, secretary of the Farm Bureau, and securing the necessary materials and rules of the contest. "I want to urge every farmer in Hempstead county to give full support to these contestants because the Farm Bureau Federation is a National Farmers' organization and can be of untold value to Hempstead county," stated Mr. Huskey.

"Open gambling, however, and slot machine operations can be reached by my authority and the law enforcement facilities at my command. It must stop."

After issuing the statement, Governor Bailey asked the superintendent of state police to notify Garland county law enforcement officials that the state government would intervene if open gambling continued in Hot Springs and Garland county.

The governor's statement was prompted, it was said at his office, by reports published Sunday that gambling operations had been resumed at two well known clubs.

Terracing Machine, Bought by Brick Works, Offered Farmers

The farmers of Hempstead county now have an opportunity to take some eggs out of the cotton basket and put them in the cheese basket, and by so doing start a soil building diversification program that is really worth while.

The Hope Brick Works have purchased a whirlwind terracing machine and propose to make the farmers of this section a free gift of this machine costing $560. Craig Roseborough at the soil conservation office has the details.

Says N. P. O'Neal: "It is intended for the smaller farmers to use this machine, not the larger ones, and if you have no way of getting a tractor to pull the terracer then we will buy a tractor and give it for use with the tractor. We have wasted our soils most terribly and the Hope Brick Works is out to do its bit to help those who can't help themselves to save our soils while there is yet time."

"This cheese factory now celebrating its first year in Hope has, and is, making a market for milk that will sell lots of ready money for our farmers who make plans and try to make a go of it. We have worked out a planting program of vetch and oats followed with cow peas that will give two crops of legumes per year that will be soil builders indeed. Our farmers should plan right now to plant cow peas at once to be cut and placed in trench silos. These are just plain dirt silos, easily built and are not supposed to have a brick or tile in them. See the cheese factory for plans on how to build them and fill them. Get our

Solves Puzzles in Movie Star Mail

Los Angeles Mailman Expert Converting Pictures Into Names

LOS ANGELES. — (AP) — Guessing names which drawings represent is the livelihood of Thomas A. Shipman, champion puzzle-worker of the Los Angeles postoffice.

For instance, a picture on an envelope of a coal bin and a barn means Bunnie Barnes.

A door and a knoll and the letters "n" and "m" means a letter to Doris Nolan.

And an auger, a car and a loft could represent nothing to him but Boris Karloff.

Shipman gets all the communications sent by fan letter writers who like to compose such fantasies and who think, perhaps, that postal clerks like puzzles and haven't much else to do but solve them.

Some fan letters, says Shipman, lack inventiveness enough to go beyond pasting a picture of the star on the envelope. Letters like that are easy for him, for he knows the face of every movie player who gets fan mail.

He keeps up with the latest productions, too. For instance, a drawing of a heap of rocks apparently yelling "help" reached Judith Barrett, who had recently played in "The Stones Cry Out."

It's seldom that a letter is returned to the sender. Then it's usually because the player departed without a forwarding address.

Diet Important Even for Canary

Sing Better When Their Weight Is Right, Fancier Discovers

EL PASO, Texas. — (AP) — Diet and proper weight is as necessary to a canary as it is to a movie star, Mrs. R. H. Hatchett, who operates a bird hospital, has discovered.

They sing better when their weight is right, she explained. Another thing, their nails must be manicured just right, not too long, not too short.

Many strange characteristics have been found by Mrs. Hatchett among the hundreds of birds she has raised.

One bird was an immaculate housekeeper and each morning before his bath took a piece of paper torn from a magazine and swept the cage with it.

Mussolini Loved

Mussolini. On July 4 I went to see De Chambrun at the French palace. To him I told the whole story of my relationship with Mussolini and I swore him to secrecy. De Chambrun said not to be disturbed because Mussolini had not received me, because his grand-daughter was ill.

"De Chambrun said an audience he was supposed to have had with Mussolini had been postponed. So I wrote to Mussolini the same day and was received July 6. I gave him a questionnaire for La Tribune des Nations. He was very gallant, very fine."

"It was understood he would fix a date for a rendezvous within 48 hours. But I heard nothing. Four days later I was called by Alfieri. I demanded to know why I couldn't see 'my Benito.' He replied it would take several days before I could see him and if I had something to do in Paris he would give me a return airplane ticket."

"I was pleased to return to Paris because I had a job with Francois La Tour (resigned chief of the International Exposition) and I wanted to explain why I had stayed so long in Rome."

"I returned to Rome July 18. Alfieri gave me the questionnaire back, signed by Mussolini. But nothing was said about the rendezvous. I was astonished for he had been so agreeable to me."

The attorney said Mme. Ferriere testified she found she had lost her job with the exposition although Vittorio Cerruti, Italian ambassador to France, intervened for her.

The lawyer picked up what he said was her own account:

"I went back to Rome in December and went to the French embassy where I talked with the ambassador's secretary. He recounted to me the whole story that I had told De Chambrun and added I was in the service of

Rumor Purvis, Model to Wed

When Janice Jarrett, Texas beauty, professional model and film actress who smiles from the upper photo, met Melvin Purvis at the Los Angeles airport recently on his return from a trip east, it revived rumors that the couple soon would march to the altar. The former ace G-Man is now a Los Angeles attorney.

the Second Bureau (French Intelligence Service).

Her lawyer said that the magistrate and his assistants wrangled over how to classify a photograph of Mussolini which had been taken from her apartment, along with her diary. The magistrate preferred the title, "portrait of a man," but yielded to the insistence of his subordinates who favored an out-and-out, "portrait of Mussolini." It was entered that way in the court records.

Don't Sleep When Gas Presses Heart

If you want to really GET RID OF GAS and terrible bloating, don't expect to do it by just doctoring your stomach with harsh, irritating alkalies and "gas tablets." Most GAS is lodged in the stomach and upper intestine and is due to old poisonous matter in the constipated bowels that are loaded with ill-causing bacteria.

If your constipation is of long standing, enormous quantities of dangerous bacteria accumulate. Then your digestion is upset. GAS often presses heart and lungs, making life miserable. You can't eat or sleep. Your head aches. Your back aches. Your complexion is sallow and pimply. Your breath is foul. You are a sick, groggy, writhing, unhappy person. YOUR SYSTEM IS POISONED.

Thousands of sufferers have found in Adlerika the quick, scientific way to rid their systems of harmful bacteria. Adlerika rid you of gas and cleans foul poisons out of BOTH upper and lower bowels. Give your bowels a REAL cleansing with Adlerika. Get rid of GAS. Adlerika does not gripe—it is not habit forming.
